

Anne Trine Larsen, PhD
Gender Equality Consultant, HR-Development
University of Southern Denmark

Since February 2009, I have been working as a Gender Equality Consultant at the University of Southern Denmark. Hereby, I am the first person to hold a position of this type at a Danish university. Prior to this, as a consultant, I have advised management, facilitated networks and developed new concepts in the HR-field. My work is also informed by my research in women's access to research positions. In 2003, I acquired my PhD-degree with a thesis on gender and work. In 1995, I acquired my Master's degree in philosophy and management with a Master's thesis on organizational theory. I completed my studies at the University of Aarhus, Denmark, and at the European University Institute, Florence, Italy.
